

Expanded Contents

PART I: THE SUMMER BEFORE LAW SCHOOL

Ch 1	Lists to Get You Ready
1.1	Pre-law prep	1
1.2	Try my three-point, high-energy plan	9
1.3	Ten ways to become a better legal writer	15
Ch 2	Legal Writing 101
2.1	Get ready for a big change	21
2.2	Think about your reader	27
2.3	Aim for three goals	29
2.4	Budget time for the fall memo now	33
2.5	Lawyers have some wacky ways of writing things	35
	Interlude No. 1: Grammar tune-up	37

PART II: 1L FALL

Ch 3	Getting Your Bearings
3.1	Avoid a “disorientation” week	43
3.2	Don’t worry about cold calls	47
3.3	Get ready for a braggart brigade	51
3.4	You should “outline” your way	55
3.5	Befriend a lonely 1L today	59

Ch 4	Midterms
4.1	IRAC exams: what are they?	65	6.2	“Here” and “there” go everywhere	133
4.2	Make friends with practice questions	67	6.3	A “company” is an “it,” not a “they”	135
4.3	What to do if you fail a midterm	69	6.4	The comma goes INSIDE the quotes, OK?	137
4.4	You learned to swim!	71	6.5	Lawyers use two commas where others don’t	139
4.5	How to beat mid-semester brain fog	73	6.6	Legal Comma Guide	141
4.6	Class prep is for cowards	77	6.7	Let’s get “i.e.” and “e.g.” straight, shall we?	143
			6.8	Never forget this “id.” rule	147
			6.9	How to use the verb “cite”	149
			6.10	Avoid common mishaps	151
	Interlude No. 2: Ditch the “which” this Halloween	81
Ch 5	The Memo			Interlude No. 4: Three questions to avoid over break	155
5.1	How to do thorough case-law research	89
5.2	Avoid a “dicta trap”	91	Ch 7	Doctrinal Exams
5.3	How to organize your cases	95	7.1	IRAC exams: what are they again?	161
5.4	Legal analysis: what is it?	97	7.2	How a case proceeds in the real world	165
5.5	Budget your time—times ten	99	7.3	Try wearing two hats in every exam	171
5.6	Save time with the Flowers Paradigm	101	7.4	Who should win this driveway caper?	175
5.7	Your reader wants to hear from you	105	7.5	Create an exam ritual	179
5.8	Six ways to slog thru legal-writing fog	109	7.6	Try this last-minute shortcut	181
5.9	The memo is a bear for everyone	113	7.7	Should you pre-write your rule statements?	183
5.10	Defined terms: two caveats	115	7.8	Most 1Ls start issue-spotters the wrong way	185
5.11	Proofread multiple ways	119	7.9	Eight bullets for better exam essays	187
5.12	Don’t flout the formatting rules	121	7.10	Nine steps to outline an exam essay	191
5.13	Do your headnotes float?	123	7.11	IRAC {CREAC} Essay Template	195
5.14	Sample Memo	125
	Interlude No. 3: Don’t develop a Demi Moore adverb problem	127		Interlude No. 5: Introduction to 1L summer jobs	201
Ch 6	Fall Writing Tips
6.1	When to capitalize “court”	131		PART III: 1L SPRING
			Ch 8	January Jump-Start

8.1	Gain perspective on fall grades	207
8.2	Learn the law-school curve	211
8.3	Take inspiration from Justice Kagan	213
8.4	How to boost spring grades	215
8.5	Banish January blues	217
8.6	You don't need politics for Con Law	219

Ch 9 The Brief

9.1	Summary judgment primer and sample sentences	223
9.2	How to find model briefs	227
9.3	You never really know a case until you try to write about it	229
9.4	Always give a case's procedural posture and who won	233
9.5	The problem with "the court found"	237
9.6	Sample CREAC transition phrases	239
9.7	Table of Contents: the most important part?	243
9.8	Statement of Facts: don't let it read like a rap sheet	245
9.9	Introductions: the hardest part to start	249
9.10	Introductions: what to include	253
9.11	What goes in an "umbrella paragraph"?	257

Interlude No. 6: Ten ways to slay your oral argument 259

Ch 10 Spring Writing Tips

10.1	"Because" is trouble after a negative verb	265
10.2	Can a preposition end a sentence?	269
10.3	Take care with "as" clauses	273
10.4	"As such" does not mean "therefore"	277
10.5	Nothin's comprised of nothin'	281
10.6	The Terminator Rule	285
10.7	Was that "affect" or "effect"?	287

Ch 11 Elevate Your Writing Style

11.1	Let's talk sentence length	291
11.2	"Thus" and "therefore" have a request	295
11.3	"However" is a snoozy sentence-starter	299
11.4	"Utilize" won't make you sound smart	305
11.5	Only snoots say "prior to"	309
11.6	Don't be willy-nilly with "while"	311
11.7	Don't use "since" to mean "because"	315

Interlude No. 7: An em-dash how-to 319

Ch 12 Editing Shortcuts

12.1	Beware of wordy ways to say "because"	325
12.2	Minimize your expletives	327
12.3	Shorten "in order to"	331
12.4	Cut "the fact that"	333
12.5	Try the "need not" sentence-shortener	335
12.6	Five hacks to cut words	337
12.7	More sultry sentence slicers	339
12.8	Try my editing P-E-N	341

Interlude No. 8: Tackling the law-review competition 343

PART IV: GETTING A JOB

Ch 13 Resumes

13.1	Why your resume needs to be perfect	351
13.2	How to align your employment dates	353
13.3	Aim for brevity in your experience entries	355
13.4	Generalities will get you nowhere	359

13.5	Form can matter more than substance	361
------	-------------------------------------	-----

Interlude No. 9: Cover letters: be different!	363
--	-----

Ch 14 Writing Samples

14.1	How to create a writing sample	369
------	--------------------------------	-----

14.2	Include a short cover memo	373
------	----------------------------	-----

Interlude No. 10: Is Times New Roman (TNR) dead?	377
---	-----

Ch 15 Interviews

15.1	Preparation	381
------	-------------	-----

15.2	Interview tips	383
------	----------------	-----

15.3	Don't do my downplay dance	387
------	----------------------------	-----

APPENDICES

Appendix A:	Additional Titles	392
-------------	-------------------	-----

Appendix B:	Grammar Glossary	394
-------------	------------------	-----

Appendix C:	Sample Memo	398
-------------	-------------	-----

Appendix D:	Global Cheat Sheet	409
-------------	--------------------	-----

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	415
------------------------	-----

DEAR 1L